Yesterday an officer reported that their badge was lost sometime on November 23rd.

The Constable had travelled from Mellor Avenue to Wyse Road in Dartmouth and then returned to Halifax Regional Police Headquarters on Gottingen Street, in Halifax. Officers have searched for the badge but have not yet located it.

Possession of police-issued equipment is strictly prohibited. Anyone with information on the whereabouts of the badge is asked to call police at 902-490-5020.

This is not the first time a Halifax Regional Police officer has lost a piece of police equipment. Over the years, there have not only badges lost, but also guns and radios.
Just in the last number of weeks a police radio has also been reported missing.

The radio was immediately disabled and cannot access police channels. Within a couple of days it was later reported that the radio had been returned to the Halifax Regional Police.
Possession of police-issued equipment is against the law.

Police equipment that finds it's way into the wrong hands could put the officer at risk or used to cause harm to the public.
If these items are found, citizens are urged to notify police promptly.
